MAKING THE CASE FOR WHY HIGHER EDUCATION MATTERS

CPE President Aaron Thompson is guided by an unwavering commitment to the transformative power of higher education. Kentucky is blessed with an array of public and private research, comprehensive, and liberal arts universities, and a dynamic system of public community and technical colleges. In recent years there has been significant progress on virtually every key measure of postsecondary success. But more can and must be done to ensure every Kentuckian, regardless of race, age, economic status, or social background, has equal opportunity to the transformative benefits of higher education. More can and must be done to ensure that Kentucky's employers have access to a pipeline of talent aligned to current and future workforce needs. More can and must be done to ensure we improve the quality of education, not just the quantity of degrees and credentials. During this session President Thompson will discuss his four priorities to challenge the educational status quo and drive true postsecondary change and improvement.

WELCOME AND REMARKS FROM GOVERNOR MATT BEVIN

Last December and with the help of the Council on Postsecondary Education, Governor Bevin brought board trustees and regents together to discuss the role of postsecondary education in the 21st century. His remarks included his vision for Kentucky to be the manufacturing capital of the world and how our institutions can play a role in that. Governor Bevin will elaborate on those discussions and how our institutions can embrace change to create a new way of doing business.

TENNESSEE'S PROMISE: HIGHER EDUCATION FOR ALL

Bill Haslam served as the 49th Governor of Tennessee from 2011 to 2019. Under Governor Haslam's leadership, Tennessee furthered its commitment to higher education with the development of the Tennessee Promise Scholarship. This pioneering program was among the first in the nation to provide two years of tuition-free attendance at a community or technical college with the goal of increasing the number of citizens who earn higher education credentials. Governor Haslam will talk about the Tennessee story and how the state has used higher education as a catalyst for economic growth and development.

Presenter: Bill Haslam, Former Governor of Tennessee

EMBRACING EDUCATIONAL EQUITY: WHAT EVERY BOARD MEMBER SHOULD KNOW

To truly prepare students for life in an increasingly diverse society, Kentucky's public institutions must seek to continue closing academic achievement gaps among diverse students and foster inclusive campus environments that graduate individuals ready for work and life. This panel will discuss the varying elements of the Kentucky Public Postsecondary Education Policy for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, and pinpoint aspects of its implementation that are pertinent to board members and their role on campus.

Facilitator:

- Andra' Ward, Vice Chair of Regents, Northern Kentucky University

Presenter:

- Dawn Offutt, Director for Diversity and Inclusion, Council on Postsecondary Education

Panelists:

- Juston Pate, President, Elizabethtown Community & Technical College
- Caroline Atkins, Diversity Officer at Morehead State University
- Juan Castro, Regent at Eastern Kentucky University

NAVIGATING FREE SPEECH IN 2019

College should be a place of free expression and free speech, but what speech is actually protected by the First Amendment? How do boards ensure that the rights to free speech and assembly are protected on their campuses while continuing to operate safely and efficiently? What lessons can be learned from other campuses around the country? This session features discussion and analysis of these timely campus legal issues.

Moderator: Travis Powell, Vice President & General Counsel, Council on Postsecondary Education

Speaker: William Thro, General Counsel, University of Kentucky

KENTUCKY'S NEW PERFORMANCE FUNDING MODEL: WHAT IT MEANS FOR YOUR CAMPUS

Nearly 40 states use performance-based funding policies that tie at least a portion of state funding for higher education to student outcome measures. The funding models are designed to advance state educational goals and demonstrate higher education's value. Kentucky implemented its comprehensive performance-based funding model two years ago after a year-long evaluation by higher education and state policy leaders. This session will explore the national landscape as it relates to performance funding, the relationship between Kentucky's education goals and the new model, and the implications of the new funding approach for students, campuses, and the state.

Moderator: Lee Nimocks, Vice President and Chief of Staff, Council on Postsecondary Education

Speakers:

- Scott Boelscher, Senior Associate, HCM Strategists
- Wendell Followell, Vice President of Administrative Services, Kentucky Community and Technical College System
- Bill Payne, Vice President of Finance & Administration, Council on Postsecondary Education

INCOME SHARE AGREEMENTS: A NEW APPROACH TO PAY FOR COLLEGE?

Income share agreements (ISA) have received a lot of attention lately as a new approach to paying for college. Rather than paying tuition up front, students agree to give up a percentage of their future income for a set period of time. While ISAs don't necessarily lower the cost of college, proponents of the new approach suggest they can reduce the financial risks that students face in getting a degree. Terri Taylor with the Lumina Foundation, and Courtney McBeth with the University of Utah will discuss the current thinking around ISAs both from a national and state university perspective.

Moderator: Ben Brandstetter, Vice Chair, Council on Postsecondary Education

MAKING THE CASE FOR HIGHER EDUCATION: THE GUARDIAN'S INITIATIVE

What is the role of college and university board members as advocates in strengthening and protecting the institutions that they govern, as well as promoting the larger education goals of the state? Every board member brings knowledge and influence to his or her board service that can powerfully accelerate an institution's policy agenda or advocacy strategy. Carol Cartwright will discuss how boards can collaborate with institutional and state leaders to advocate on behalf of colleges and universities, demonstrate their return on investment and ultimately help reclaim the public's trust in the value of higher education.

Presenter: Carol Cartwright, President Emeritis, Kent State University and Bowling Green State University, and Senior Fellow and Consultant with the Association of Governing Boards

ELECTED OFFICIALS SPEAKING

GOVERNOR MATTHEW G. BEVIN was elected the 62nd Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky in 2015. He is a husband, father of nine children, U.S. Army veteran and successful small business owner. Growing up, Matt Bevin and his family of eight lived in an old farmhouse, sharing three bedrooms and one bathroom. The humble home stood on a farm where the family raised crops and livestock, instilling in their children a strong work ethic and solid Christian values. Bevin later attended Washington and Lee University in Virginia on an ROTC scholarship. Upon graduation, he served on active duty as a U.S. Army officer and left the service having achieved the rank of captain. After his military service, Governor Bevin worked for many years in the financial industry. A job opportunity brought him and his wife Glenna, a registered nurse, to Kentucky in 2000, where they decided to settle down and raise their family. Bevin founded several companies in Kentucky and invested in a number of others in the Commonwealth as well as in other states. He managed and expanded multiple businesses, ranging from manufacturing, investment management and medical devices. His businesses created a great many well-paying jobs for hard-working Americans. In 2011, Governor Bevin became the president of Bevin Bros., a small bell manufacturing company founded in 1832, and a family business for six generations. Although the company was bankrupt when he took over, Governor Bevin's leadership brought it back from the edge and saved more than 25 jobs. Today, Bevin Bros. makes all bells used by the Salvation Army volunteers each year. Governor Bevin served on many non-profit boards, including as Chairman of the Board for the American Red Cross, Louisville Area Chapter. He has permanently endowed several scholarship funds, grants, and centers that provide educational opportunities for young people with limited financial resources.

SENATOR DAVID P. GIVENS (R) represents Senate District 9 (Allen, Barren, Green, Metcalf, Monroe, and Simpson counties). He serves on the Education Committee and the Appropriations and Revenue Committee, and he is a member of the Kentucky Career and Technical Education Task Force. Senator Givens received his bachelor of science and master degrees from Western Kentucky University. He has served in the Senate since 2009.

REPRESENTATIVE JAMES TIPTON (R) represents House District 53 (Anderson, Spencer, and part of Bullitt counties). He serves as Chair of the Budget Review Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education and is a member of the Education Committee. Representative Tipton received his bachelor's degree in agriculture and his master's degree in vocational education from the University of Kentucky. He has served in the House since 2015.

SENATOR MORGAN MCGARVEY (D) represents Senate District 19 (part of Jefferson county). He serves on a number of committees including Appropriations & Revenue, Banking & Insurance, and State & Local Government. Senator McGarvey graduated from the University of Missouri with a bachelor's degree in journalism. He received his juris doctor degree from the University of Kentucky College of Law. He is a practicing attorney with Morgan & Pottinger, PSC, and has served in the Senate since 2012.

REPRESENTATIVE ROCKY ADKINS (D) represents House District 99 (Elliott, Lewis, Rowan counties). He is the Minority Floor Leader and serves on the Rules Committee and Committee on Committees. Representative Adkins graduated from Morehead State University with bachelor's and master's degrees in public affairs, and was named to the Morehead State University Alumni

Hall of Fame and recognized for many other awards in the area. He currently serves as the chair of the Eastern Kentucky Workforce Development Board and has served in the House since 1987.

The Council on Postsecondary Education coordinates change and improvement in Kentucky's postsecondary education system as directed by the Kentucky Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997.

Established as part of the education reforms set forth in the Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997, the Council on Postsecondary Education is Kentucky's statewide postsecondary and adult education coordinating agency. The Governor appoints the Council members, which include 13 citizens, one faculty member and one student member; the Commissioner of Education is an ex-officio member. A supporting state agency is attached to the Governor's Office and run by the President, who is appointed by Council membership.
